Dear Diary,

June 7, 2011

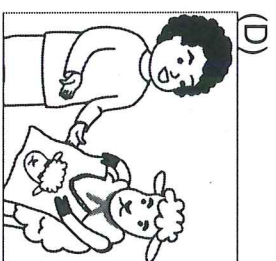

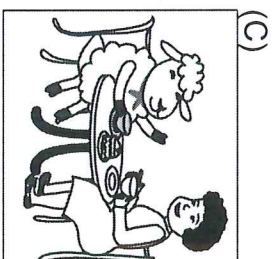

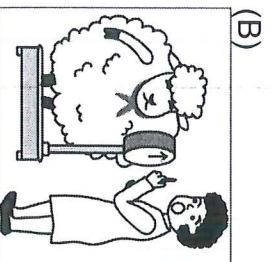

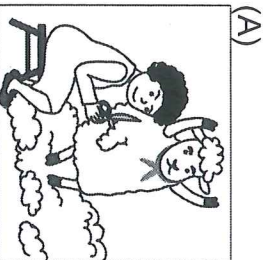

I was very sad to hear what happened to Woollie yesterday. Woollie was my favorite sheep. I have a storybook about Woollie. It says when Woollie was four, he ran away from Mr. Armstrong's farm, and it took Mr. Armstrong six years to find Woollie. But Woollie had grown so much fleece that he didn't even look like a sheep. Mr. Armstrong decided to cut his fleece on TV so everyone could see. Daddy said this happened on the day I was born. Woollie's fleece weighed 27 kg, and could make clothes for 20 large men. I asked Daddy if his favorite vest was made from Woollie's fleece. Daddy said no, because Woollie's fleece was sold to collect money for sick kids. In the storybook, Woollie was taken to see Ms. Stella Clark, the leader of our city then. They even had tea together. Daddy said Woollie did meet Ms. Clark, but he wasn't sure if they had tea. Daddy said Woollie was put down because he was too sick and there was no way to help him. I cried. I hope Woollie will be happy up there in the sky.

Food is a big part of French culture. People say that French people live to eat, while the rest of the world eats to live. That's why the Michelin Guide, the most famous food guide in the world, comes from France.

Michelin is a tire company started by the Michelin brothers in 1889. Back then, not many people had cars in France. To sell more tires, the Michelin brothers had an idea. Since French people love food, they decided to create a book listing good restaurants in different cities. This way, people would drive more to try the food, and Michelin could sell more tires.

The Michelin Guide has a team of secret inspectors who visit restaurants and try the food. They don't let the restaurant know who they are, so they get treated like any other customer. After each visit, the inspectors write a report and decide if the restaurant deserves a Michelin star. Restaurants can get one, two, or three stars.

- Michelin Three Stars: Amazing food, worth the visit!
- Michelin Two Stars: Great food, must try!
- Michelin One Star: Good food, worth a try!

Getting even one star is a big honor, and it's not easy to be on the list. That's why being in the guide is a special achievement. In 2024, the Michelin Guide awarded stars to 49 restaurants in Taiwan. Would you like to try them?

Living with a Shiba Inu: A Stubborn but Sweet Dog

Shiba Inus are cute Japanese dogs that look like foxes. They are famous for being stubborn, which means they often don't listen to their owners and they don't want to change their actions or thoughts.

Shibas are smart dogs, but they like to do things their way. When you call them, they might just look at you and walk away. Sometimes they sit and look at you, knowing what you want, but choosing not to do it. It's like they're saying, "I hear you, but I don't want to!"

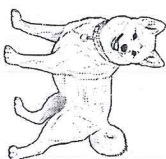

A Shiba needs lots of alone time. When you try to hug them too much, they get upset - just like a teenager who says "Leave me alone!" They even walk away when you're talking to them. Sound familiar?

These dogs can be really moody. One minute they're super happy, and the next minute they act like they don't know you. When you have treats, they will come to you. But when it's bath time? They act like they can't hear you calling them! They understand your orders, but they only listen when they feel like it. For example, a Shiba might come running when you have treats but just walk away when it's bath time. It's not because they're bad dogs - it's just how they are.
