The food waste problem is becoming more and more serious. People in the USA, for example, throw out over 67 billion kilograms of good food each year. Here in Taiwan, it is around four billion kilograms. As a teenager, I have three suggestions to fix this problem.

First, don't buy too much food at one time, and don't make more food than you need. Make a shopping list before you shop, and plan your meals before you start cooking. This way, you can also save money.

Second, store food properly, so it won't go bad before its best-before date. For example, after you buy milk, you should put it in the fridge quickly when you get home.

Third, you can buy "seconds" and save them from the trash can. They don't look beautiful, but they are cheaper and still taste good.

In short, cutting food waste is really important. It can save us money and help the world.

Christmas is a seasonal tradition for many families to pick out the perfect Christmas tree from a tree farm.

There are many tips for families to keep a live Christmas tree in the house. After you cut down the tree at the farm, get the tree into water within three hours after cutting it down. If you can, make a fresh cut at the bottom of the trunk before putting it into the water. It is important to use a Christmas tree holder and fills at least a gallon of water. You should also make sure to water the tree heavily and often because the water will dry out quickly.

Moreover, you should keep the house cool and place the tree away from the fireplace. With COVID-19 still spreading all over the world, people are spending the holidays at home. They try to make their vacation as comfortable as they want it to be with new decorations and a live Christmas tree.
